After a brief misguided perception of each other they become friends. And Arie begins to encourage Nazir into expanding his horizons and showcase his work as a professional painter.

And being the ex-wife of an art dealer, she uses her knowledge of the business to help Nazir get into the spotlight of high society’s art world.

And through their partnership they fall in love and together they escape their seemingly hopeless situations.

STORY NOTES:

#1. One of the dynamics to this story is that fate brought Arie into Nazir's life. She was exactly what he needed to escape the ghetto. And the same can be said for Nazir, and it is that realization that begins their business relationship.

#2. Because they are people from two different worlds, one from privilege and the other from hardship. Their personalities and perceptions of each other are constantly clashing – which brings into the movie the “raw emotion” between the two.

#3. Heated arguments between the two reveal to the audience the stereotypical perceptions high society has of the lower class. But as their business and romantic relationship grows, both of their perceptions change as they find commonality and a need for each other.

_ Aries' arguments help Nazir to see the need to utilize his talents rather than partake in ghetto life.

_ Nazir's arguments help Arie to see that her judgmental views of the lower class comes from a misguided perception. And the only thing that separates the classes is not a willingness to succeed. But the fact that one was fortunate not to be born into a community of poverty and hopelessness.

_ Through these arguments and revelations a mutual respect and love begins to grow.

LOVE IS TESTED

#4. As Nazir's success and fame in the art world begins to grow, Aries devotion is tested when her ex-husband catches wind of her new found endeavor and returns to reconcile. Although tempted because of her uncertain fate with Nazir, she still decides to remain with Nazir and see their business and love affair through to the end.

#5. The movie ends with the opening of their own upscale “art gallery “in Beverly hills called (Fire & Earth) – the name is taken from their zodiac signs.

#6. The ending returns Arie to the life she was accustomed to before she fell on hard times. And Nazir is saved from poverty and enters into a life he deserved – a place neither would have reached without each other.

- A story of true fate.
